The Stainless Steel 304L Pipe/ Tube is made up of carbon, nickel, chromium, phosphorous, molybdenum, manganese, and sulfur. These alloys are designed with a tensile strength of minimum 485Mpa and yield strength of minimum 170Mpa. The Stainless Steel 304L Pipe can be easily elongated by 35% as per requirements. These pipes and tubes are used in the transportation of gases, fluids, food industry, chemical systems, etc. We are amongst the leading 304L Stainless Steel Tube suppliers in Mumbai. We aim to produce the best products in the markets at reasonable rates. The 304L Stainless Steel Seamless Pipe is produced without the requirements of fillets or welding. SS 304L Seamless Pipe can be used in very corrosive environments. They are available in different schedules and wall thicknesses to suit the different requirements of our clients. Manufactured by joining pieces of steel together, the SS UNS S30403 Welded Pipe is highly versatile. The low carbon in this 304L alloy eliminates post-weld carbon precipitation. Weld annealing may be required for high-stress applications. The 304L SS Schedule 40 Pipe is a high-pressure pipe. As the pressure and temperatures increase, the working allowance of these pipes decreases. These pipes can work at temperatures of up to 525 degrees C.
